

The Monkey

Radio/speaker for dynamic people

Design: RSW

The unique feature of The Monkey radio / speaker is the ingenious snap-on antenna with its spring metal core. It offers two iconic positions, enabling The Monkey to be used in two different ways.

With the antenna in straight position it is a static object. And it playfully becomes your mobile companion with the antenna clinging around handles, tubes and any other support.

Never mind if the radio programme sucks — just switch to the blue tooth mode and enjoy your favourite music.

We wanted to create an iconic radio that plays with the classic image of a radio but offering a contemporary unique mobility at the same time. Mobility demands an easy method for fixing the gadget to anything. With the goal to achieve this with the radio itself and not with something additional like a strap we came up with the idea to use the antenna for this feature. Fascinated by the ability of spring steel we found the perfect material for the antenna. Super fast, super easy and super playful. It's just a snap! Like a monkeys tail.

Curious — like a monkey.

*The monkey leapt from branch to branch while

And to pace its swing it kept on singing.
