The Moon Globe. A Celebration.

Design: Francesco Toselli

Graphics: Alvino

THERE, the Moon Globe, celebrates an extraordinary event in the history of mankind and the first place, outside Planet Earth, where man has ever set foot. But THERE also celebrates the Moon, the celestial object so closely connected to human existence and whose rhythms are still today so fundamental for our existence.

The THERE lunar globe is colored silver because Selene/Silver is its most ancient name, and it's made in special textured paper to enhance the morphology of the Moon's surface, covered by craters and seas. And we could not do without the icon of the first man who walked on the lunar surface in 1969 and the indication of the sites of successive moon landings.

That's one small step for man, one giant leap for mankind.
